Information concerning copyright in periodicals

When To Use Form B. Form B is appropriate for published issues of periodicals which have been manufactured in the United States.

What Is a "Periodical"? Speaking broadly, the term "periodical" refers to works published at regular intervals of less than a year under the same general title. The most common examples include newspapers, magazines, reviews, bulletins, proceedings of societies, and similar works which would be registered as second-class matter at the Post Office. The term "periodical" does not include publications issued at irregular intervals or at intervals of a year or more; such works should generally be registered as "books" on Form A.

No "Blanket" Copyright. There is no such thing as a "blanket" copyright which would protect the general idea or format of a periodical, or a series of issues as a whole. Each issue of a periodical is a separate subject for copyright, and the copyright claims in each issue must be registered separately.

No Copyright in Titles. The title of a periodical cannot be copyrighted. Copyright in an issue covers the copyrightable contents of that issue, but does not extend to the title or name under which the periodical is published. Titles of periodicals can sometimes be registered as trademarks at the Patent Office, U. S. Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D. C.

Duration of Copyright. Statutory copyright in a particular issue of a periodical lasts for 28 years from the date of first publication of that issue, and may be renewed for a second 28-year term.

How to secure statutory copyright in a periodical

First: Produce Copies of the Issue With Copyright Notice. Produce the issue in copies by printing or other means of reproduction. To secure copyright, it is essential that the copies bear a copyright notice in the required form and position, as explained below.

Second: Publish the Issue With Copyright Notice. The copyright law defines the "date of publication" as "... the earliest date when copies ... were placed on sale, sold, or publicly distributed."

Third: Register Your Copyright Claim. Promptly after publication, mail to the Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington 25, D. C., two copies of the issue as published with notice, an application on Form B, properly completed and signed, and a fee of $4. (Note: A deposit account, against which fees can be drawn, may be established in the Copyright Office by remitting a sum sufficient to cover registration fees for one year.)

The Copyright Notice: The copyright notice for periodicals shall appear on the title page of the issue, on the first page of text, or under the title heading. It shall consist of the word "Copyright," the abbreviation "Copr.," or the symbol ©, accompanied by the name of the copyright owner and the year date of publication. For example: © John Doe 1962. Use of the symbol © may result in securing copyright in countries which are parties to the Universal Copyright Convention.

NOTE: It is the act of publication with notice that actually secures copyright protection. If copies of an issue are published without the required notice, the right to secure copyright in that issue is lost and cannot be restored.

Information concerning copyright in periodicals

When To Use Form B. Form B is appropriate for published issues of periodicals which have been manufactured in the United States.

What Is a "Periodical"? Speaking broadly, the term "periodical" refers to works published at regular intervals of less than a year under the same general title. The most common examples include newspapers, magazines, reviews, bulletins, proceedings of societies, and similar works which would be registered as second-class matter at the Post Office. The term "periodical" does not include publications issued at irregular intervals or at intervals of a year or more; such works should generally be registered as "books" on Form A.

No "Blanket" Copyright. There is no such thing as a "blanket" copyright which would protect the general idea or

format of a periodical, or a series of issues as a whole. Each issue of a periodical is a separate subject for copyright, and the copyright claims in each issue must be registered separately.

No Copyright in Titles. The title of a periodical cannot be copyrighted. Copyright in an issue covers the copyrightable contents of that issue, but does not extend to the title or name under which the periodical is published. Titles of periodicals can sometimes be registered as trademarks at the Patent Office, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C., 20231.

Duration of Copyright. Statutory copyright in a particular issue of a periodical lasts for 28 years from the date of first publication of that issue, and may be renewed for a second 28-year term.

How to secure statutory copyright in a periodical

First: Produce Copies of the Issue With Copyright Notice. Produce the issue in copies by printing or other means of reproduction. To secure copyright, it is essential that the copies bear a copyright notice in the required form and position, as explained below.

Second: Publish the Issue With Copyright Notice. The copyright law defines the "date of publication" as "... the earliest date when copies ... were placed on sale, sold, or publicly distributed."

Third: Register Your Copyright Claim. Promptly after publication, mail to the Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., 20540, two copies of the issue as published with notice, an application on Form B, properly completed and signed, and a fee of $4. (NOTE: A deposit account, against which fees can be drawn, may be established. For details write to the Copyright Office.)

The Copyright Notice: The copyright notice for periodicals shall appear on the title page of the issue, on the first page of text, or under the title heading. It shall consist of the word "Copyright," the abbreviation "Copr.," or the symbol ©, accompanied by the name of the copyright owner and the year date of publication. For example: © John Doe 1965. Use of the symbol © may result in securing copyright in countries which are parties to the Universal Copyright Convention.

NOTE: It is the act of publication with notice that actually secures copyright protection. If copies of an issue are published without the required notice, the right to secure copyright in that issue is lost and cannot be restored.

Information concerning copyright in periodicals

When To Use Form B. Form B is appropriate for published issues of periodicals which have been manufactured in the United States.

What Is a "Periodical"? Speaking broadly, the term "periodical" refers to works published at regular intervals of less than a year under the same general title. The most common examples include newspapers, magazines, reviews, bulletins, proceedings of societies, and similar works which would be registered as second-class matter at the Post Office. The term "periodical" does not include publications issued at irregular intervals or at intervals of a year or more; such works should generally be registered as "books" on Form A.

No "Blanket" Copyright. There is no such thing as a "blanket" copyright which would protect the general idea or format of a periodical, or a series of issues as a whole. Each issue of a periodical is a separate subject for copyright, and the copyright claims in each issue must be registered separately.

No Copyright in Titles. The title of a periodical cannot be copyrighted. Copyright in an issue covers the copyrightable contents of that issue, but does not extend to the title or name under which the periodical is published. Titles of periodicals can sometimes be registered as trademarks at the Patent Office, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C., 20231.

Duration of Copyright. Statutory copyright in a particular issue of a periodical lasts for 28 years from the date of first publication of that issue, and may be renewed for a second 28-year term.

How to secure statutory copyright in a periodical

First: Produce Copies of the Issue With Copyright Notice. Produce the issue in copies by printing or other means of reproduction. To secure copyright, it is essential that the copies bear a copyright notice in the required form and position, as explained below.

Second: Publish the Issue With Copyright Notice. The copyright law defines the "date of publication" as "... the earliest date when copies ... were placed on sale, sold, or publicly distributed."

Third: Register Your Copyright Claim. Promptly after publication, mail to the Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., 20540, two copies of the issue as published with notice, an application on Form B, properly completed and signed, and a fee of $4. (NOTE: A deposit account, against which fees can be drawn, may be established. For details write to the Copyright Office.)

The Copyright Notice: The copyright notice for periodicals shall appear on the title page of the issue, on the first page of text, or under the title heading. It shall consist of the word "Copyright," the abbreviation "Copr.," or the symbol ©, accompanied by the name of the copyright owner and the year date of publication. For example: © John Doe 1965. Use of the symbol © may result in securing copyright in countries which are parties to the Universal Copyright Convention.

NOTE: It is the act of publication with notice that actually secures copyright protection. If copies of an issue are published without the required notice, the right to secure copyright in that issue is lost and cannot be restored.

Information concerning copyright in periodicals

When To Use Form B. Form B is appropriate for published issues of periodicals which have been manufactured in the United States.

What Is a "Periodical"? Speaking broadly, the term "periodical" refers to works published at regular intervals of less than a year under the same general title. The most common examples include newspapers, magazines, reviews, bulletins, proceedings of societies, and similar works which would be registered as second-class matter at the Post Office. The term "periodical" does not include publications issued at irregular intervals or at intervals of a year or more; such works should generally be registered as "books" on Form A.

No "Blanket" Copyright. There is no such thing as a "blanket" copyright which would protect the general idea or format of a periodical, or a series of issues as a whole. Each issue of a periodical is a separate subject for copyright, and the copyright claims in each issue must be registered separately.

No Copyrights in Titles. The title of a periodical cannot be copyrighted. Copyright in an issue covers the copyrightable contents of that issue, but does not extend to the title or name under which the periodical is published. Titles of periodicals can sometimes be registered as trademarks at the Patent Office, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C., 20231.

Duration of Copyright. Statutory copyright in a particular issue of a periodical lasts for 28 years from the date of first publication of that issue, and may be renewed for a second 28-year term.

How to secure statutory copyright in a periodical

First: Produce Copies of the Issue With Copyright Notice. Produce the issue in copies by printing or other means of reproduction. To secure copyright, it is essential that the copies bear a copyright notice in the required form and position, as explained below.

Second: Publish the Issue With Copyright Notice. The copyright law defines the "date of publication" as "... the earliest date when copies ... were placed on sale, sold, or publicly distributed."

Third: Register Your Copyright Claim. Promptly after publication, mail to the Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., 20540, two copies of the issue as published with notice, an application on Form B, properly completed and signed, and a fee of $6. (NOTE: A deposit account, against which fees can be drawn, may be established. For details write to the Copyright Office.)

The Copyright Notice. The copyright notice for periodicals shall appear on the title page of the issue, on the first page of text, or under the title heading. It shall consist of the word "Copyright," the abbreviation "Copr.," or the symbol ©, accompanied by the name of the copyright owner and the year date of publication. For example: © John Doe 1966. Use of the symbol © may result in securing copyright in countries which are parties to the Universal Copyright Convention.

NOTE: It is the act of publication with notice that actually secures copyright protection. If copies of an issue are published without the required notice, the right to secure copyright in that issue is lost and cannot be restored.

The term "periodical" does not include publications issued at irregular intervals or at intervals of a year or more; such works should generally be registered as "books" on Form A.

No "Blanket" Copyright. There is no such thing as a "blanket" copyright which would protect the general idea or

format of a periodical, or a series of issues as a whole. Each issue of a periodical is a separate subject for copyright, and the copyright claims in each issue must be registered separately.

No Copyright in Titles. The title of a periodical cannot be copyrighted. Copyright in an issue covers the copyrightable contents of that issue, but does not extend to the title or name under which the periodical is published. Titles of periodicals can sometimes be registered as trademarks at the Patent Office, U. S. Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D. C.

Duration of Copyright. Statutory copyright in a particular issue of a periodical lasts for 28 years from the date of first publication of that issue, and may be renewed for a second 28-year term.

How to secure statutory copyright in a periodical

First: Produce Copies of the Issue With Copyright Notice. Produce the issue in copies by printing or other means of reproduction. To secure copyright, it is essential that the copies bear a copyright notice in the required form and position, as explained below.

Second: Publish the Issue With Copyright Notice. The copyright law defines the "date of publication" as "... the earliest date when copies ... were placed on sale, sold, or publicly distributed."

Third: Register Your Copyright Claim. Promptly after publication, mail to the Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington 25, D. C., two copies of the issue as published with notice, an application on Form B, properly completed and signed, and a fee of $4. (Note: A deposit account, against which fees can be drawn, may be established in the Copyright Office by remitting a sum sufficient to cover registration fees for one year.)

The Copyright Notice: The copyright notice for periodicals shall appear on the title page of the issue, on the first page of text, or under the title heading. It shall consist of the word "Copyright," the abbreviation "Copr.," or the symbol ©, accompanied by the name of the copyright owner and the year date of publication. For example: © John Doe 1958. Use of the symbol © may result in securing copyright in countries which are parties to the Universal Copyright Convention.

NOTE: It is the act of publication with notice that actually secures copyright protection. If copies of an issue are published without the required notice, the right to secure copyright in that issue is lost and cannot be restored.

Information concerning copyright in periodicals

When To Use Form B. Form B is appropriate for published issues of periodicals which have been manufactured in the United States.

What Is a "Periodical"? Speaking broadly, the term "periodical" refers to works published at regular intervals of less than a year under the same general title. The most common examples include newspapers, magazines, reviews, bulletins, proceedings of societies, and similar works which would be registered as second-class matter at the Post Office. The term "periodical" does not include publications issued at irregular intervals or at intervals of a year or more; such works should generally be registered as "books" on Form A.

No "Blanket" Copyright. There is no such thing as a "blanket" copyright which would protect the general idea or

Duration of Copyright. Statutory copyright in a particular issue of a periodical lasts for 28 years from the date of first publication of that issue, and may be renewed for a second 28-year term.

How to secure statutory copyright in a periodical

First: Produce Copies of the Issue With Copyright Notice. Produce the issue in copies by printing or other means of reproduction. To secure copyright, it is essential that the copies bear a copyright notice in the required form and position, as explained below.

Second: Publish the Issue With Copyright Notice. The copyright law defines the "date of publication" as "... the earliest date when copies ... were placed on sale, sold, or publicly distributed."

Third: Register Your Copyright Claim. Promptly after publication, mail to the Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington 25, D. C., two copies of the issue as published with notice, an application on Form B, properly completed and signed, and a fee of $4. (Note: A deposit account, against which fees can be drawn, may be established in the Copyright Office by remitting a sum sufficient to cover registration fees for one year.)

The Copyright Notice: The copyright notice for periodicals shall appear on the title page of the issue, on the first page of text, or under the title heading. It shall consist of the word "Copyright," the abbreviation "Copr.," or the symbol ©, accompanied by the name of the copyright owner and the year date of publication. For example: © John Doe 1958. Use of the symbol © may result in securing copyright in countries which are parties to the Universal Copyright Convention.

Information concerning copyright in periodicals

When To Use Form B. Form B is appropriate for published issues of periodicals which have been manufactured in the United States.

What Is a "Periodical"? Speaking broadly, the term "periodical" refers to works published at regular intervals of less than a year under the same general title. The most common examples include newspapers, magazines, reviews, bulletins, proceedings of societies, and similar works which would be registered as second-class matter at the Post Office. The term "periodical" does not include publications issued at irregular intervals or at intervals of a year or more; such works should generally be registered as "books" on Form A.

No "Blanket" Copyright. There is no such thing as a "blanket" copyright which would protect the general idea or format of a periodical, or a series of issues as a whole. Each issue of a periodical is a separate subject for copyright, and the copyright claims in each issue must be registered separately.

No Copyright in Titles. The title of a periodical cannot be copyrighted. Copyright in an issue covers the copyrightable contents of that issue, but does not extend to the title or name under which the periodical is published. Titles of periodicals can sometimes be registered as trademarks at the Patent Office, U. S. Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D. C.

Duration of Copyright. Statutory copyright in a particular issue of a periodical lasts for 28 years from the date of first publication of that issue, and may be renewed for a second 28-year term.

How to secure statutory copyright in a periodical

First: Produce Copies of the Issue With Copyright Notice. Produce the issue in copies by printing or other means of reproduction. To secure copyright, it is essential that the copies bear a copyright notice in the required form and position, as explained below.

Second: Publish the Issue With Copyright Notice. The copyright law defines the "date of publication" as "... the earliest date when copies ... were placed on sale, sold, or publicly distributed."

Third: Register Your Copyright Claim. Promptly after publication, mail to the Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington 25, D. C., two copies of the issue as published with notice, an application on Form B, properly completed and signed, and a fee of $4. (Note: A deposit account, against which fees can be drawn, may be established in the Copyright Office by remitting a sum sufficient to cover registration fees for one year.)

The Copyright Notice: The copyright notice for periodicals shall appear on the title page of the issue, on the first page of text, or under the title heading. It shall consist of the word "Copyright," the abbreviation "Copr.," or the symbol ©, accompanied by the name of the copyright owner and the year date of publication. For example: © John Doe 1962. Use of the symbol © may result in securing copyright in countries which are parties to the Universal Copyright Convention.

NOTE: It is the act of publication with notice that actually secures copyright protection. If copies of an issue are published without the required notice, the right to secure copyright in that issue is lost and cannot be restored.

Information concerning copyright in books

When To Use Form A. Form A is appropriate for published books which have been manufactured in the United States.

What Is a "Book"? The term "books" covers not only material published in book form, but also pamphlets, leaflets, cards, and single pages containing text. Books include fiction, nonfiction, poetry, collections, directories, catalogs, and information in tabular form.

Unpublished Books. The law does not provide for registration of "book" material in unpublished form. Unpublished books are protected at common law against unauthorized use prior to publication.

Duration of Copyright. Statutory copyright in published books lasts for 28 years from the date of first publication, and may be renewed for a second 28-year term.

How to secure statutory copyright in a book

First: Produce Copies With Copyright Notice. Produce the work in copies by printing or other means of reproduction. To secure copyright, it is essential that the copies bear a copyright notice in the required form and position, as explained below.

Second: Publish the Work With Copyright Notice. The copyright law defines the "date of publication" as "... the earliest date when copies of the first authorized edition were placed on sale, sold, or publicly distributed by the proprietor of the copyright or under his authority, ..."

Third: Register Your Copyright Claim. Promptly after publication, mail to the Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., 20540, two copies of the work as published with notice, an application on Form A, properly completed and notarized, and a fee of $4.

The Copyright Notice. The copyright notice for books shall appear on the title page or verso thereof, and shall consist of three elements: the word "Copyright," or the abbreviation "Copr.," or the symbol ©, accompanied by the name of the copyright owner and the year date of publication. Example: © John Doe 1964. Use of the symbol © may result in securing copyright in countries which are members of the Universal Copyright Convention.

NOTE: It is the act of publication with notice that actually secures copyright protection. If copies are published without the required notice, the right to secure copyright is lost, and cannot be restored.

Books manufactured abroad

In General. Form A is not appropriate for books which have been manufactured outside the United States.

Foreign-Language Books. Applications covering foreign-language books by foreign authors, manufactured abroad, should be submitted on Form A-B Foreign.

English-Language Books. Books in English manufactured abroad may be registered for "ad interim" copyright (Form A-B Ad Interim); or, if they are protected under the Universal Copyright Convention they are eligible for full-term registration on Form A-B Foreign.

(1) Ad Interim Copyright. Ad interim registration is necessary for protection in the United States unless copyright has been secured under the Universal Copyright Convention. To secure ad interim copyright a claim must be registered within 6 months of first publication abroad. Ad interim copyright lasts for 5 years or until an American edition is published within the 5-year period and registered.

(2) Universal Copyright Convention. An English language work by a foreign author first published abroad is eligible for full-term U.S. copyright if: (a) its author is a citizen or subject of a country which is a member of the Universal Copyright Convention, or the work was first published in such country, and (b) all published copies bear the copyright notice provided under the Universal Copyright Convention.

Information concerning copyright in books

When To Use Form A. Form A is appropriate for published books which have been manufactured in the United States.

What Is a "Book"? The term "books" covers not only material published in book form, but also pamphlets, leaflets, cards, and single pages containing text. Books include fiction, nonfiction, poetry, collections, directories, catalogs, and information in tabular form.

Unpublished Books. The law does not provide for registration of "book" material in unpublished form. Unpublished books are protected at common law against unauthorized use prior to publication.

Duration of Copyright. Statutory copyright in published books lasts for 28 years from the date of first publication, and may be renewed for a second 28-year term.

How to secure statutory copyright in a book

First: Produce Copies With Copyright Notice. Produce the work in copies by printing or other means of reproduction. To secure copyright, it is essential that the copies bear a copyright notice in the required form and position, as explained below.

Second: Publish the Work With Copyright Notice. The copyright law defines the "date of publication" as "... the earliest date when copies of the first authorized edition were placed on sale, sold, or publicly distributed by the proprietor of the copyright or under his authority."

Third: Register Your Copyright Claim. Promptly after publication, mail to the Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington 25, D. C., two copies of the work as published with notice, an application on Form A, properly completed and notarized, and a fee of $4.

The Copyright Notice. The copyright notice for books shall appear on the title page or verso thereof, and shall consist of three elements: the word "Copyright," or the abbreviation "Copr.," or the symbol ©, accompanied by the name of the copyright owner and the year date of publication. Example: © John Doe 1962. Use of the symbol © may result in securing copyright in countries which are members of the Universal Copyright Convention.

NOTE: It is the act of publication with notice that actually secures copyright protection. If copies are published without the required notice, the right to secure copyright is lost, and cannot be restored.

Books manufactured abroad

In General. Form A is not appropriate for books which have been manufactured outside the United States.

Foreign-Language Books. Applications covering foreign-language books by foreign authors, manufactured abroad, should be submitted on Form A-B Foreign.

English-Language Books. Books in English manufactured abroad may be registered for "ad interim" copyright (Form A-B Ad Interim); or, if they are protected under the Universal Copyright Convention they are eligible for full-term registration on Form A-B Foreign.

(1) Ad Interim Copyright. Ad interim registration is necessary for protection in the United States unless copyright has been secured under the Universal Copyright Convention. To secure ad interim copyright a claim must be registered within six months of first publication abroad. Ad interim copyright lasts for 5 years or until an American edition is published within the 5-year period and registered.

(2) Universal Copyright Convention. An English language work by a foreign author first published abroad is eligible for full-term U. S. copyright if: (a) its author is a citizen or subject of a country which is a member of the Universal Copyright Convention, or the work was first published in such country, and (b) all published copies bear the copyright notice provided under the Universal Copyright Convention.

Information concerning copyright in periodicals

When To Use Form B. Form B is appropriate for published issues of periodicals which have been manufactured in the United States.

What Is a "Periodical"? Speaking broadly, the term "periodical" refers to works published at regular intervals of less than a year under the same general title. The most common examples include newspapers, magazines, reviews, bulletins, proceedings of societies, and similar works which would be registered as second-class matter at the Post Office. The term "periodical" does not include publications issued at irregular intervals or at intervals of a year or more; such works should generally be registered as "books" on Form A.

No "Blanket" Copyright. There is no such thing as a "blanket" copyright which would protect the general idea or

format of a periodical, or a series of issues as a whole. Each issue of a periodical is a separate subject for copyright, and the copyright claims in each issue must be registered separately.

No Copyright in Titles. The title of a periodical cannot be copyrighted. Copyright in an issue covers the copyrightable contents of that issue, but does not extend to the title or name under which the periodical is published. Titles of periodicals can sometimes be registered as trademarks at the Patent Office, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C., 20231.

Duration of Copyright. Statutory copyright in a particular issue of a periodical lasts for 28 years from the date of first publication of that issue, and may be renewed for a second 28-year term.

How to secure statutory copyright in a periodical

First: Produce Copies of the Issue With Copyright Notice. Produce the issue in copies by printing or other means of reproduction. To secure copyright, it is essential that the copies bear a copyright notice in the required form and position, as explained below.

Second: Publish the Issue With Copyright Notice. The copyright law defines the "date of publication" as "... the earliest date when copies ... were placed on sale, sold, or publicly distributed."

Third: Register Your Copyright Claim. Promptly after publication, mail to the Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., 20540, two copies of the issue as published with notice, an application on Form B, properly completed and signed, and a fee of $6. (NOTE: A deposit account, against which fees can be drawn, may be established. For details write to the Copyright Office.)

The Copyright Notice. The copyright notice for periodicals shall appear on the title page of the issue, on the first page of text, or under the title heading. It shall consist of the word "Copyright," the abbreviation "Copr.," or the symbol ©, accompanied by the name of the copyright owner and the year date of publication. For example: © John Doe 1966. Use of the symbol © may result in securing copyright in countries which are parties to the Universal Copyright Convention.

NOTE: It is the act of publication with notice that actually secures copyright protection. If copies of an issue are published without the required notice, the right to secure copyright in that issue is lost and cannot be restored.
